Flexiteek International has announced the acquisition of its Danish distributor, bringing the business into the Flexiteek Group alongside its established operations in the UK, USA, Sweden, and Poland.

Flexiteek Denmark is Europe's highest-volume fabricator of synthetic decking and adds extensive knowledge to our existing fabrication and installation base. This acquisition further strengthens Flexiteek's position as the world's largest manufacturer of synthetic PVC decking and global provider of OEM decking solutions, managing each stage from extrusion & manufacturing, through deck design and fabrication, to installation, training and after-sales support.

Flexiteek International is pleased to welcome Mikkel Svendsen, Anders Bagger and their colleagues to the Group, reinforcing a shared commitment to innovation, quality and continued growth in the marine industry.

Adam Ramsden, Group CEO, comments: “With Flexiteek now recognised by many leading OEMs as the best solution for appearance, longevity and sustainability, it was inevitable that we would continue to expand our fabrication capabilities and expertise. We are delighted to have been able to secure this partnership, as a step-change that sets foundations for the next phase of growth”.

The partnership marks the next step in a long-standing relationship between the two businesses, which have developed in parallel over the past two decades. By bringing Flexiteek Denmark into the Group, Flexiteek International Group further consolidates its global expertise, capacity and service offering Mikkel Svenden, MD Flexiteek Denmark, comments: “Since the introduction of Flexiteek synthetic decking over 25 years ago, we have developed our skills and expertise, working side-by-side with our OEM customers to ensure the highest level of installation quality and design innovation. This is the next phase of development for Flexiteek, and we are very happy to be part of the Group”.

With increased capacity, enhanced expertise and a unified global network of fabricators and installers, the Flexiteek Group is uniquely positioned to deliver consistent, high-quality solutions to boat builders and partners worldwide, while continuing to drive innovation in synthetic marine decking.
