NANNI STRENGTHENS ITS PRESENCE IN THE NETHERLANDS WITH MAN ROLLO

As the new official Nanni distributor in the Netherlands, MAN Rollo will promote, market, and provide support for the Nanni generator set lineup across several strategic segments: yachts, superyachts and commercial. In particular, the company will distribute the Q4500 and Q6800 series, developed around a John Deere engine and featuring Nanni's Soundless technology, as well as the high-power Q12000, Q24000 and Q30000 series, developed around a MAN engine.

"The development of our international network relies on strong partners who can provide technical expertise and local support. We share the same ambition with MAN Rollo: to offer reliable, innovative, and high-performance solutions that provide long-term support to professionals in the maritime sector." Gregorio Passani - Chief Business Officer Nanni.

Thanks to its strong local presence, technical expertise, and network of customers and partners, MAN Rollo will support users with localized service, high-quality after-sales support, and reliable power generation solutions tailored to the demands of the Dutch market.

"We are proud to welcome Nanni to our portfolio. Nanni is a respected brand that perfectly complements our existing offering and reinforces the quality, reliability, and technical expertise our customers expect from MAN Rollo. By adding Nanni's generator solutions, including products based on both John Deere and MAN technology, we can provide our customers with an even more comprehensive and future-ready portfolio for the maritime industry." Michel van Gulik - General Manager.
