ACQUERA GROUP EXPANDS YACHTING SERVICES WITH THE ACQUISITION OF A MAJORITY STAKE IN WILSONHALLIGAN

Wilsonhalligan, a leading British company specialized in the recruitment of highly qualified personnel, has joined Acquera Group, which now expands its range of yachting services. The Wilsonhalligan management team will remain in place following this acquisition.

Acquera Group has acquired a majority stake in Wilsonhalligan, a British company specializing in the search and selection of professionals for the superyacht, maritime shoreside, and private household markets. Wilsonhalligan thus joins the Group.

Founded in 2007 and headquartered in Fareham, UK, Wilsonhalligan is an international leader in recruitment for the nautical and maritime industry. The business has scaled in size and reach as it has consolidated experience selecting highly qualified individuals for owners, shipyards, yachting companies, and high-profile private residences.

This acquisition represents a new milestone in Acquera Group's growth strategy, aimed at building an increasingly integrated ecosystem of services for the yachting industry. With the addition of Wilsonhalligan, the Group expands into the recruiting segment, further growing the expertise and solutions it offers its clients across the entire value chain.

"We believe that a company's growth begins with its people. This is why Wilsonhalligan's addition to the Group is particularly significant for us: we are building strategic expertise that will allow us to further contribute to the development of the yachting industry globally. We are proud to partner with a company that has built its reputation on excellence and its ability to identify top talent," says Stefano Tositti, founder and CEO of Acquera Group.

Wilsonhalligan will continue to operate as an independent company, maintaining its brand, identity, and current management structure. Liam Dobbin, Managing Director, and Nicola Morgan, Director, will continue to lead the company, ensuring continuity in relationships with clients and candidates while fostering the development of new synergies within the Group.

"Joining Acquera Group allows us to pursue further growth and contribute to a well-established company that has become a benchmark in the yachting industry. Thanks to the Group's global presence, we will be able to expand our business and serve a greater number of clients," says Liam Dobbin, Managing Director of Wilsonhalligan.

"We look forward with confidence to this shared growth journey, which will allow us to combine our expertise in recruitment with Acquera Group's strategic and international vision," adds Nicola Morgan, Director of Wilsonhalligan.

With this acquisition, Acquera Group expands its services, further consolidating its position as a leading partner within the yachting landscape. The addition of Wilsonhalligan reinforces this vision, adding to the Group a leader in specialized recruiting, contributing to an increasingly comprehensive platform to support the entire industry.
